

"I'm a New' Negro With New Ideas," Speaker Says

"I am a new Negro with new ideas," declared George Abbott, organizer of the National Negro Non-Artisan League, as he began his address to an audience of approximately 300 at Mother Zion Community House, 138th street, near Seventh avenue, on Sunday afternoon.

The meeting was held for the purpose of protesting against the segregation of Negro policemen during the parade for the Bremen transatlantic liners, and also to demand elective representation in Congress and on the bench.

Convedee B. Jenkins declared that Harlem was lacking in proper leadership, and that the Negroes here were interested only in cabarets, glumills and theatres, and that in view of such he did not blame the Harlem Negro for not voting.

Other speakers were: G. Victor Cools, national chairman of the league; Madeline R. Johnson, secretary; Ella Baker, U. S. Poston and the Rev. D. C. Allyene.

Ex-Mayor John F. Hylan, the scheduled principal speaker, did not attend.
