Rights Lawyer Gets Bond On Tax Charges

BALTIMORE, Md. — After a whirlwind campaign of exactly one week, Herman Taylor, noted Raleigh, N. C., civil rights lawyer jailed for probation violation on income tax charges, was released on bond.
The U. S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit, set bond at $1500, while defense Attorney Len Holt of Norfolk, Va., processes an appeal of the revocation of probation.
Holt said it is one of the few times in the history of American jurisprudence that bond has been granted in a probation violation case.

He said that in his intensive week's effort to free Taylor he had the support of the Committee to Assist Southern Lawyer of National Lawyer Guild and of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, on whose legal committee he serves, the assistance of numerous lawyers and individuals in Detroit, Lynchburg, Va., Washington, Baltimore, and New York—people, Holt said, "who helped with research, paid expenses, picked up the telephone bill, or fed and housed me on my travels."

"It is a good example of how people and organizations will pitch in and come to the support of a brave man who takes a stand for civil rights and then gets in trouble for it," he declared.

All in all, he estimated, getting Taylor released on bond took about a week of his time (with time out while he handled a hearing on the Danville, Va., omnibus integration suit) and about $700 in expense money from organizations and individuals.

Attacks U.S. on South Africa Sugar Grant

NEW YORK—Calling the U. S. Department of Agriculture sugar allocation to South Africa "unconscionable," the American Negro Leadership Conference on Africa expressed a vigorous protest to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman on Feb. 7th.
A recent announcement by the Department of Agriculture that the U. S. would seek 1,100,000 tons of sugar from many countries around the world, including South Africa, has opened to question the U. S. policy in allocating to the Union of South Africa to supply 52,163 tons of the total amount.

Commenting on the U. S. Government action, Conference Director Theodore E. Brown stated:
"Some people in high places in Washington don't seem to have too much concern about the conflict between South Africa's racial apartheid policy and our own country's adherence to human rights as expressed in the Constitution of the United States, the United Nations Declaration of Rights, and Supreme Court decrees."

The U. S. has cancelled the sugar quota formerly allocated to Cuba and has given much of that allocation to South Africa. Commenting on this cancellation, Mr. Brown stated:
"We do not object to this allocation being withdrawn from Cuba because of its current adherence to Communist doctrine. In this regard, we support our Government. But why give it to South Africa, whose denial of equality to non-white citizens is equally reprehensible."

The Nov. 1962 Arden House conference of the American Negro Leadership Conference on Africa took vigorous exception to many positions regarding South Africa taken by the U. S. Delegation in the General Assembly and Committees of the United Nations. The Conference policy regarding South Africa was discussed in a White House conference with President Kennedy on Dec. 17th by a committee from the Arden House group and also in a conference with Ambassador Adlai Stevenson on Jan. 29th at his U.N. headquarters in New York.

NAACP Executive Secretary Wilkins Says The New Negro Still Has Miles To Go

By Lee Ivory
"If the southern states choose to support segregation, let them finance it themselves," said Roy Wilkins, Executive Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in a Wednesday afternoon press conference held at Wayne State University's Community Arts Auditorium.
"The Negro of today can no longer underwrite racial discrimination in any way," he said, speaking on Civil Rights Progress and the NAACP, the topic of the first session of a two-day symposium in Wayne State's observance of the Emancipation Proclamation Centennial.
Mr. Wilkins continued: "Federal monies should not be used to pay for segregated schooling, housing, and recreational facilities anywhere in the U. S."
Wilkins predicted that "a wave of public education" will help to wipe out forced segregation within the next few years.
"I also see an increased franchise in the South, and more intelligent use of the ballot by the Negro in the North," said Wilkins.
In the meantime, he said "Negroes should be getting the chips off their shoulders—and some of them are logs—and begin to study themselves more objectively."

22,000 People Removed From Welfare Rolls

ATLANTA, Ga. — Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has issued a nationwide appeal for staple goods for starving Negroes in the Mississippi Delta.

Dr. King said SCLC board member Dr. Aaron Henry estimates that 22,000 people have been removed from welfare rolls because of intensified civil rights and voter registration efforts in LaFlore and Madison counties. Some of the more active participants have also been forced to leave their homes on plantations.

Urging people throughout America to respond freely, Dr. King said, "I am calling on supporters North, South, East and West to gather staple goods in their communities through their churches to be sent to the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), care of Dr. Aaron Henry 220 4th Street, Clarksdale, Miss.

In addition to reprisals to counter growing resistance to segregation, SCLC's field secretary, the Rev. James Bevel, reports that automation has contributed to the plight of Delta Negroes.

"Sharecroppers are being laid off long before the traditional November end of cotton picking due to the increased use of cotton picking machines. From the time they are laid off, until cotton chopping begins in May, these people are dependent upon whatever welfare and surplus food they can get to survive. Without it they will die," says Bevel.

Attempts have been made to spur federal assistance to this area by visits of SCLC staff members to the Department of Agriculture, the U. S. Civil Rights Commission, and the Justice Department.

Grace Bumbry Called 'Golden Voice of Era'

NEW YORK. — Grace Bumbry is acclaimed as "one of the golden voices of her time" in an article in the current LOOK Magazine. The 26-year-old Negro soprano, who catapulted to international fame in just three years, came home this season for her first American tour.
The "emotional apex" of Miss Bumbry's return to America was a concert in her hometown of St. Louis, which "turned out to hear her sing in Kiel Auditorium." When she finished "3,000 people rose as one, in tribute," according to LOOK.
